

TRAINING INVITATION

Child Abuse Response and Evaluations (CARES) and Sexual Assault Response Team (SART)

The intersection of medicine and law can be challenging and, at times daunting for both professions. Medical care providers are often anxious about going to court and as a result may be ill prepared. Attorneys are faced with the interpretation of specialized medical data and inaccessible medical providers. We hope to address these concerns in this training by combining medical and legal faculties. We aim to provide information and education to those involved in presenting forensic evidence in court.
